As a result, this report should be read in conjunction with the REIT's audited consolidated financial statements for the year ended December 31, 2020, related Management's Discussion and Analysis (MD&A) and the Annual Information Form (AIF). THE ART OF APPRECIATION

Astute investors appreciate that multi-suite residential properties are a great investment over the long run, generating stable income. This is why Morguard North American Residential REIT is such a wise choice. We take a conservative approach to investing that is decisive, acquiring high-value profitable real estate assets that offer consistently enhanced rates of return over time. We diligently analyze and evaluate opportunities before investing and make capital improvements to our existing portfolio to increase their value. Working with Morguard's tightly integrated network of real estate professionals, we have nearly tripled the value of our portfolio since the REIT's initial public offering (IPO) in 2012 through acquisitions and continue to generate growing cash distributions, much to the appreciation of our Unitholders.

LETTER FROM THE CHAIRMAN AND CEO

Dear Fellow Unitholders,

Our lives truly changed in 2020 when the pandemic struck the world economy, and we were all encouraged by our governments to stay at home. It was a year when many businesses were forced to shut down to prevent the spread of the coronavirus.

While so many sectors of business were negatively disrupted during this difficult time, I am pleased to report that Morguard North American Residential REIT's multi-suite residential real estate portfolio remained relatively stable through 2020.

Our resilience and nimbleness worked to our favour when the coronavirus outbreak hit. We were able to quickly respond, keeping our tenants, employees and visitors healthy, safe and comfortable – something that continues to be our first priority.

Both the executive and operations teams at the REIT did a tremendous job meeting all the challenges they faced. To help reduce the spread of COVID-19, we eliminated amenities that were deemed to be risky and intensified cleaning in high-touch-point areas at our properties, deferred maintenance orders for non-emergency repairs and added additional hand sanitizers on premises for our residents. And we posted health and safety best practices to keep everyone aware of current guidelines.

In addition, we used the latest technology to keep lines of communications open – both internally as well as with our tenants. During the pandemic, we established new methods of doing business, producing live videos that became an important part of our leasing process. And we were also committed to reducing vacancies and retaining tenants by enhancing our ad placements, upgrading our residential property websites and becoming even more active on social media.

We were fortunate that governments also answered the call and made available various forms of financial aid to support our tenants.

How did Morguard North American Residential REIT remain resilient during this economic crisis?

The answer is through strong management and asset diversification. Although we operate in a single asset class, multi-suite residential apartments, our properties are highly diversified in terms of location, currencies and community style. We currently hold properties in both Canada (40% of total suites) and the United States (60% of total suites) in 11 different states and provinces, generating cash flows in Canadian and U.S. dollars that, combined, contribute $145.6 million in Net Operating Income (NOI) to our bottom line, inclusive of the REIT's share of its equity-accounted investments. The REIT's properties are comprised of high-rise, mid-rise and garden style (low-rise) communities, that are located in high density urban and suburban areas as well as smaller communities.

The REIT's performance was solid in 2020. Our Average Monthly Rent (AMR) per suite increased in Canada by 4.7% and in the U.S. by 1.3%. Despite the pandemic, occupancy remained relatively stable down only 3.1% across our portfolio primarily due to a few properties directly impacted by university or local business closures. And our rental collection rate during the year exceeded 99%, in line with historical rates.

I am pleased to report that the REIT completed the redevelopment of 1643 Josephine Street in New Orleans, Louisiana, a Class A mid-rise property, centrally located in the renowned Garden District neighbourhood boasting first class amenities.

The REIT's financial position remains strong with a portfolio of 13,275 rental suites across 43 properties. Our revenues rose by 1.3% to $248.7 million and total assets increased to $3.1 billion, up from $3.0 billion in 2019. Similarly, our NOI for the year increased by 2.0% and basic FFO of $68.9 million increased by 7.4% compared to 2019. And the REIT continues to be in an excellent liquidity position for future growth, with access to $120.7 million in cash and amounts available on its credit facility.

Looking to the future, I see bright things on the horizon for an organization that has always been committed to the business of real estate, almost tripling its assets since the REIT's IPO. The REIT's strong executive team, with the support of ulti-suite residential asset class has always proven to be a safe investment. The reason: multi-suite residential properties are unique in how they create value – they not only increase in value over time, but they also generate stable income while doing so.

Our diverse residential real estate portfolio provides us with the resiliency we need to remain successful even during periods of volatility, while our ongoing liquidity allows us to constantly seek out new opportunities for greater portfolio growth.

MARQUEE AT BLOCK 37, CHICAGO, IL

We create value by investing in highly desirable residential communities where individuals have access to precisely what they need to live, work and thrive. We acquire properties that have the right quality, location and amenities to have an impact on the vibrancy of the communities in which they reside. And we constantly respond to the needs of our tenants, maintaining relevance in an ever-competitive marketplace.

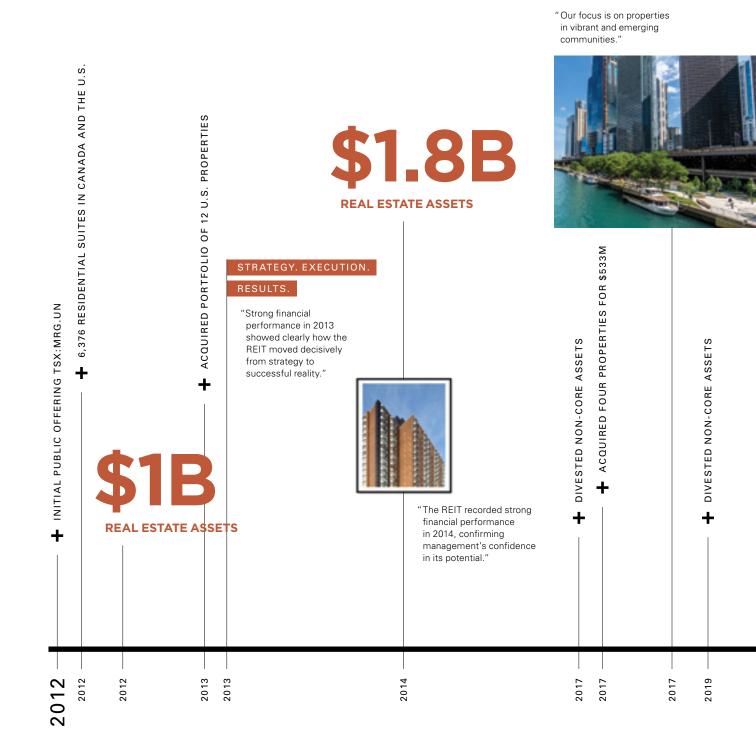

RIDEAU TOWERS III, TORONTO, ON

Working with Morguard's tightly integrated network of real estate professionals, we have direct access to the financial strength and management we need to intelligently build our portfolio and sustain long-term value. Our investment approach is decisive yet conservative because we are personally invested in the REIT. Our market knowledge and eye for acquisitions are so keen that we are always able to act definitively from a position of strength.

We see the value of acquiring multi-suite residential properties that will experience appreciable growth over time. This is how we have been able to deliver consistently enhanced rates of return for our Unitholders year after year.

APPRECIATING OUR APPROACH

Historically, our approach has been consistent, and it has managed to stand the test of time. We have nearly tripled the value of our assets since our IPO to $3.1 billion and have built a portfolio of 43 properties in North American markets that demonstrate significant promise as their respective communities continue to mature and grow. The composition of our portfolio has also remained constant, comprised of high-rise, mid-rise and low-rise community-based multi-suite residences.

APPRECIATING OUR FUTURE

To increase the value of our portfolio, Morguard North American Residential REIT has always been committed to acquiring higher-quality properties. We have maintained this strategy while also seeking ways to preserve our stable occupancy rates and increase our average monthly rents.

As we continue on our journey, we will be looking to expand into even more prime markets with high rental demand. Our proposed targets are major urban and suburban centres throughout North America that are growing rapidly and are economically strong. We will be pursuing assets in states and provinces where we have existing density because we already have management in place there.

We will seek out high-performing properties that require less operational capital expenditures than most. And we will work in collaboration with Morguard to access opportunities that meet our stringent criteria with respect to quality, location and amenities.

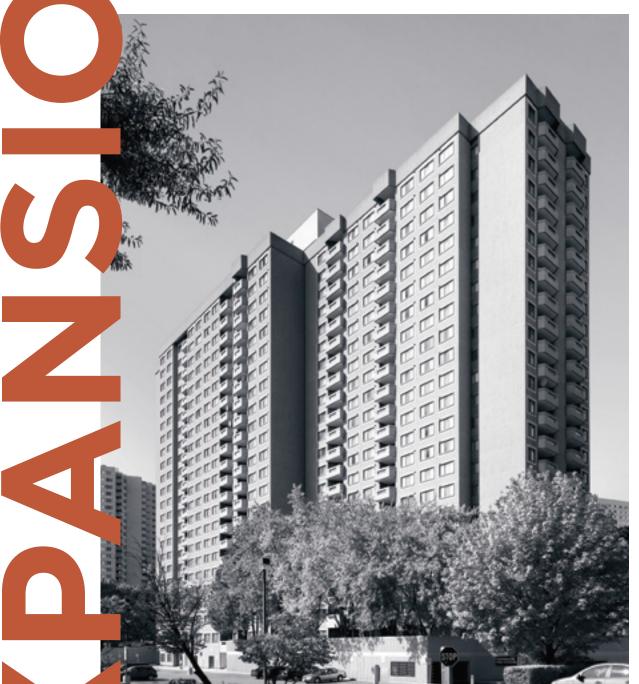

The REIT's capital improvement program will ensure that all our existing properties are well-maintained, with upgrades performed when required. Expenditures like these give us the ability to charge higher rents, lower operating expenses and enhance the attractiveness of our properties, thereby increasing our resident retention rates.

Appreciating that it is truly possible to build a real estate portfolio that will increase in value over time, by prudently acquiring and managing quality multi-suite residential properties that are located in bourgeoning North American markets that people want to call home. It is how we have effectively managed to provide our Unitholders with sustainable annual returns since the REIT's inception in 2012.

2020 FINANCIAL AND OPERATING HIGHLIGHTS

The pandemic had a negative impact on many real estate classes. Fortunately, multi-suite residential apartments remained resilient during 2020. We at Morguard North American Residential REIT implemented measures to protect the health and safety of our employees, tenants and communities and we continue to be committed to adjusting our service model.

By maintaining a strategy that focuses on maximizing long-term value through diversified assets, we have a strength that protects us against market downturns, regardless of the circumstances surrounding them. Our diversification ensures that when a slowdown has occurred in one or more locales, we continue to produce cash flows from properties that are located in markets that are more insulated from economic downturns. This approach to asset management allows us to generate stable and growing cash flows year after year.

RESULTS FOR UNITHOLDERS

The REIT's unit price has grown since the REIT's IPO. At December 31, 2012, the unit price was $11.20 and, although seeing some downward pressure during 2020, the unit price closed at $15.95 at year end. Cash distributions per unit remained steady at $0.0583 per month.

The REIT continues to be a strong and growing investment, delivering a cumulative total return of 145% (11% annualized) since its launch in 2012.

REAL ESTATE PORTFOLIO PERFORMANCE

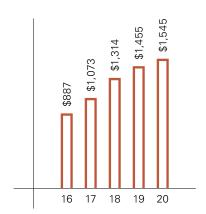

The REIT has a diverse portfolio comprised of 43 properties located in nine U.S. states and two Canadian provinces. It is further diversified by currency, community style and demographics of tenants.

In Canada, our NOI for the year increased by 3.1% due to growth in average monthly rent and managing an increase in operating expenses. Canada accounts for 38% of net operating income. In the U.S., Same Property NOI increased by 1.3% due to similar factors. The U.S. accounts for 62% of net operating income.

DISTRIBUTIONS – PER UNIT In Dollars

UNITHOLDERS' EQUITY In Millions of Dollars

The REIT's overall strategy of maintaining superior value continued to succeed with average monthly rent remaining strong in Canada at $1,500 and in the United States at US$1,428. Occupancy remained fairly solid in both regions at 94.9% in Canada and 93.6% in the U.S.

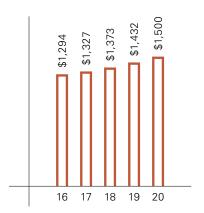

OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT

The pandemic was unexpected and had a significant impact on our industry. The REIT's skilled and experienced executive team was able to act swiftly to meet the challenges it faced and effectively mitigate the risks presented. They enhanced the REIT's internal technology, maximized its digital strength and focused on preserving our healthy occupancy levels.

Technology was used to keep lines of communication open – both internally as well as with our tenants and partners. Due to social distancing requirements, live videos became an important part of the leasing process as did digital tours. This allowed the REIT to meet market demands, reach prospects and operate using a new remote working model.

Keeping tenants was a key priority. We partnered with our tenants to determine what support they required and how we could assist them. We launched new marketing programs called "New Days, New Ways" that helped ensure that employees and tenants felt safe in their offices and residences.

Equally important, to make certain we had the cash reserves we might require if unforeseen conditions were to arise, we reduced our capital expenditures to $22.1 million in 2020 compared to $30.6 million in 2019.

DEVELOPMENT

In October 2020, pre-leasing began at the REIT's property located at 1643 Josephine Street in New Orleans' Garden District. The repositioned asset boasts first class amenities including condo-quality finishes, a gigabit fibre optic network, a fitness centre and an outdoor pool. The redevelopment of 1643 Josephine is part of the strategy to continually improve the overall quality of the REIT's portfolio.

CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

The REIT has always been focused on acquiring high-quality properties in promising markets when they become available. In order to expedite this strategy, we have always maintained strong cash reserves.

This served us well during the pandemic, providing us with the capacity we required to weather the storm. The REIT has liquidity of $120.7 million comprising $27.3 million of cash on hand and $93.4 million available under its revolving credit facility.

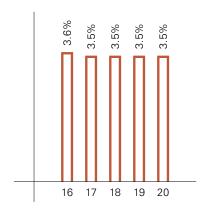

The REIT continues to use refinancing to ensure low exposure. One example was the refinancing of a multi-suite residential property in Mississauga, Ontario, in the amount of $25.2 million at an interest rate of 2.03% for a term of 10 years. The maturing mortgage amounted to $8.8 million and had an interest rate of 4.25%.

FINANCIAL RESULTS

Morguard North American Residential REIT remains committed to appreciable growth, increasing our portfolio's value while generating stable income through high occupancy and an expansive footprint. It is an approach that has been proven over time to ensure our portfolio performs consistently well for our Unitholders.

We remained relatively stable during the pandemic. We collected approximately 99% of rental revenues, which is consistent with historical rates. Occupancy remains stable while down only 3.1% across our portfolio primarily due to a few properties directly impacted by the pandemic.
